If there is real need for a shop in the locality, the Collector may be asked to issue a fresh licence to the most deserving of the applicants on his waiting list preferably a Harijan. Sir,

TEXTILES - Millcloth - retail shop - The Madras Agency of Mangalore - change of ownership - grant of license to purchaser - approval requested.

Janab Ibrahim Abdul Latiff a businessman of Kathiavar was running a cloth shop in Mangalore under the name of "The Madras Agency". He had a millcloth license for retail trade and was also selected for dealing in B & C Millcloth. On 13.3.51 he submitted a petition to me stating that he intended selling his shop to Sri John D'Silva owing to financial stringency and requesting the transfer of the license in the name of the purchaser. As licenses are not transferable I rejected the petition and further cancelled the license because the licensee had stated in his petition that he was unable to run the said concern. On receipt of this order the licensee submitted a petition to me on 27.4.51 in which he stated that he had acquired enough finance and intended continuing the business. Accordingly I restored his license. After some time in their letter dated 14.8.51 the Managing Agents of the B & C Company Ltd., informed me that they had reliable information that the ownership of the Madras Agency had changed hands. I have caused further enquiries to be held in this connection. These enquiries have revealed that the concern was sold by Janab Ibrahim Abdul Latif on 23.4.51 by means of a sale deed to Sri John D'Silva who is conducting the business now- licensee has left this place and his

His correct whereabouts are not known. I have therefore cancelled his license.

2. Sri John D'Silva the purchaser now applies for the grant of the license to him for the shop. I see no objection to grant the license to him. I request the approval of the Government to grant the license to him.

Yours faithfully,

For Collector.

The Collector reports in his indicates that one Janab Ibrahim Abdul Latiff was granted a mill cloth licence and that he had sold his shop to one Sri John D'Silva. The Collector considered that licences are not transferable and hence cancelled the licence Sri John D'Silva the purchaser applied to the Collector for the grant of a licence to him for the shop so purchased by him. The Collector has no objection to grant the licence to him. But the D.C.C. has stated that the Collector might be asked to issue a fresh licence to the most deserving of the applicants on his waiting list preferably a Harijan and that Mr. Jothen D'silva is not entitled to any preferential claim as he came in possession of the licence without Govt. approval of Govt.

The argument of the D.C. does not appear to be reasonable. Transfer of licence can be effected by Collectors in such cases unless the purchaser is an undesirable person & considered unfit to hold a licence. There are instances when the D.C. has effected such transfers. There seems to be no objection to allow such a concession in this case, as the Collector himself has no objection. For orders.
